

STILLPOINT FARM

Code of Conduct and Rules for Resident Trainers

Thank you for choosing to train at Stillpoint Farm. We know that you have many options available to you here in the Wellington area and we are proud that you will be calling our farm “home base.” Herewith is a framework of conduct that has proven to provide us all with an atmosphere that engenders respect, trust and success.

As you know, there are several trainers working at any one time on site, therefore it is important that we show each other the utmost courtesy in all aspects of our conduct but specifically in the following situations:

Interactions with another trainer’s clients should be casual in nature. Any communication involving training, lessons, sale/purchase of horses etc must go through said client’s trainer.

It is incumbent upon you to be sure that your clients have signed liability waivers before riding at the farm. We will provide forms in the arena for your ease. It is also important that you advise any of your ship in clients about the arena fees and secure their payment either at the time of training or on a monthly basis. Your ship in clients are welcomed at the farm when our SF boarder traffic is at a minimum so we appreciate your consideration when creating your daily training schedule.

We will try to accommodate your needs for scheduling special clinics, schooling shows, presentation of sales horses etc providing we have the time to do so. Please let us know as soon as possible so that we can clear your request with the other trainers and clients.

Please be sure that your Trainer’s Certificate of Liability Insurance is up to date and proof is provided for our records.

It is our goal is to maintain an exceptional standard of professionalism so that our training environment is of the highest quality. PLEASE communicate directly with Tuny or Missy should you have any concerns, questions, comments or suggestions.
